

Y TEEN PROGRAMS

“These programs taught me that I could make a difference, that my voice mattered, and that I have the power to influence and inspire those around me.”

- Kadidia Bocoum, Y Teen

THE CHALLENGE

The majority of New York City teens face significant barriers to educational attainment, including a growing mental health crisis and a persistent cycle of poverty. These factors are especially prevalent in communities of color, driving down high school graduation rates and often deterring teens from pursuing college.

THE Y'S SOLUTION

Y Teen Programs respond to the needs of today's youth with five evidence-based programs: Y Scholars, Rowe Scholars, Teens Take the City, Leaders Club and Teen Night Out. These programs aim to provide pathways to college, strengthen leadership skills, and build social development. Student participants are predominantly Black and Hispanic teens and these programs directly address the educational and social disparities that disproportionately affect these populations.

THE URGENT NEED

The demand for teen programming in low-income NYC neighborhoods exceeds our current capacity to serve. Donations are needed to fund the expansion of Y sites and secure the delivery of these transformational services.
